U.S. FINANCIER PLANS BILLION DOLLAR BANK FOR EUROPE

Frank A. Vanderlip Sails To Start Huge Scheme To Stabilise Funds

TRADE CURRENCY

American Takes Lead In Effort To Uphold Nations' Credit

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

Warsaw, Oct. 31.—Plan prepared by Frank a Vanderlip to stabilise the trade currencies of Central Europe has been presented to Premier Pilsudski and other ministers of Poland. The plan provides for the establishment of the "Bank of the United States of Europe," with a capitalisation of one billion dollars. Four trustees of the bank shall be Europeans and five Americans, with the bulk of the capital from America.

At the outset the bank is authorised to issue trade dollar notes through subsidiary banks which at present are now unable to finance commercial transactions. Notes not secured by bullion shall serve as international currency. Each country must continue using its own currency for domestic transactions.

Mr. Vanderlip plans the gradual retirement of American interests from control of the bank as the European interests become able to overtake their responsibilities.

Mr. Vanderlip is leaving for Berlin where he will lay his plan before the German government. He says he is not representing any financial group or government.

SOME FIRING BUT RIVER NOW OPEN

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 28.—The Yangtze River, from Ichang to Chungking, is now open to traffic, according to reports from Chungking, although there is some firing still going on, that interferes to a small extent. Liu Hsiang, the Szechuenese commander, is said to be doing his best to put an end to the difficulty, so that the river may be entirely safe, but he has very little control of the troops who went south to attack the northern forces at Ichang.

The reason for his lack of control is declared to be because the Szechuenese troops outside of Szechuen were sent from the province in order to get rid of them. The northwest province was so overburdened with troops, which it could neither support, feed, or disband them and Liu Hsiang yeilded to pressure and sent them to "feed upon Hupeh," with the idea, that anything was better than keeping them inside the province, and that in Hupeh, they could live on the salt revenue at Ichang and other supplies, and loot and make trouble for their arrears of pay in someone else's yard. Now that they are being driven back into Szechuen, Liu is at a loss to know what to do with them.

Wu Pei-fu's action in driving these soldier-bandits whom nobody wants, back into their original location, has made him very unpopular with those who are expecting to suffer from it. Apparently no one objects to Wu Pei-fu for WASHINGTON, October 31.—Conferring with Mr. Porter, Chairman of the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee, President Harding intimated that he was opposed to any resolution providing for immediate withdrawal of the American troops on the Rhine.

The China Press Secures Public Ledger Cable Service!

THE CHINA PRESS presents to its readers this morning the first instalments of the exclusive service it has seccured for China from the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and the Trans-Pacific news services, the most enterprising interpretative news organisations in America, today. The Ledger has correspondents everywhere in the world and its staff of writers, includes Colonel House who was President Wilson's chief advisor at the Paris Conference; Frederick William Wile, who among others, will report the doings of the Disarmament Conference; Miss Dorothy Thompson, one of the best known woman journalists will report various events of moment in Europe and today sends an exclusive interview with Karl, the Ex-Emperor, now in custody following his second dash for the Hapsburg throne. Many other famous writers also contribute to this service, exclusive to THE CHINA PRESS and THE EVENING STAR which will thus be enabled to cover events in America and Europe on a scale, and with an accuracy and freedom from Governmental and other bias, never before attempted in the Far East. Watch THE CHINA PRESS' exclusive service covering all angles of the Disarmament conference.

Japan Means Business But Must Consult Tokio Every Step Washington Believes

Noted Correspondent Tells Of Attempt Of Big Delegation To Create "Atmosphere" Before Conference Starts—How Far Can Nippon Dominate Scene Now Is Question

BY FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The outstanding question in Washington today is the extent to which the Japanese will dominate the Pacific Conference scene.

With the Conference ten days away, the major portion of the working delegation is here in elaborate quarters busily creating the desired "atmosphere."

A unique social function was given last night at the Japanese embassy, where leading American correspondents were entertained at dinner in order to have them meet Major General Tanaka and the Japanese correspondents.

The impression was given generally that Japan means business and wants a definite settlement of the questions at issue before its delegation returns to Tokio.

It is also known that the delegation does not intend to proceed without the full support of Tokio and will not make any commitment until the matter is submitted to Tokio, thereby avoiding the American experience at Versailles.

Washington Tells Plans For Opening Arms Parley

BY FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE

Washington, Nov. 1.—November 12 will mark the opening here of the Pacific conference. The postponement of one day in the opening of the session has been made necessary on account of the rites in honor of America's unknown soldier on Armistice Day.

The Conference will be called to order by Secretary of State Hughes. After an address of welcome by President Harding, the session will adjourn until Novemebr 14, when the Conference will organisp, electing a chairman and secretary and adopting a mode of procedure. Secretary Hughes is almost certain to be chosen chairman.

The Conference will begin business on the fifteenth. The public sessions will be confined to representatives of the press, congressmen, officials, and members. The public will not be admitted, on account of lack of room. The capacity of the Daughters of the American Revolution Hall, where the sessions will be held, is only 800, of whom 300 will be representatives of the press and the remainder officials of the conference.

At the public sessions, there will be only set speeches and possibly voting, while the real business of the Conference will be transacted in committee meetings or executive sessions, but the American government proposes to hold as many public sessions as possible.

President Harding is expected shortly to announce the membership of the American advisory council, of whom at least two will be women.

CONFER ON NAVY ITEMS

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Oct. 31.—Secretary Denby and Admiral Coontz conferred today regarding the navy questions to be brought before the Disarmament Conference. It is understood that their talk in the main dealt with the situation in the Pacific and the status of merchant marine as a potential war force.

America Fairly Hates War Harvey's Word To Envoys

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 1.—A large and distinguished company last night attended a dinner given by the Anglo-American Society at the Pilgrims' Club in honor of the British delegates to Washington.

The American Ambassador referred to the blessing which prominent personages in Britain had given the forthcoming Conference. The attitude of France was no less reassuring but what was yet more satisfying was the response of the alert and progressive Empire in the Far East.

As regards America the position was plain that she had no reason to fear war. She simply hated it. Her moral position was impregnable. She would never seek additional territory by conquest and would not even accept it as a gift.

CONFIDENT OF OUTCOME

He declared that the American Government had given evidence of its confidence in the outcome of the Conference, notably regarding the Navy, for which the appropriations had been halved when it was decided to convene a Conference. Consequently the American rate of naval construction at

Warsaw, Nov. 1.—The Soviet legation here announces the outbreak of war again between the Bolsheviks and Poland with the Poles invading.

The legation has protested to Poland against the violation of neutrality.

WILSON REALLY ILL, NO REBUKE TO FOCH PLANNED

Washington, Nov. 1.—Marshal Foch is leaving for the west today to attend the meeting of the American Legion at Kansas City. He called on Former President Wilson at the latter's home but was unable to see him. The former president is bedridden and his condition is reported as worse than previously.

He will be unable to see friends for a considerable time, and will probably be unable to take part in the ceremonies over the body of America's unknown soldier at Arlington National Cemetery on Armistice Day.

A report was circulated that the former president's failure to see Marshal Foch was due to his desire to rebuke the French militarist, but this was shown to be false. The refusal was entirely due to Mr. Wilson's physical condition.

BANZAI BLAMES JAPANESE GOVT.

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Nov. 1.—Colonel Banzai, Japanese advisor to the War Office, interviewed by the Osaka Mainichi's correspondent, placed the opprobrium of bad faith and unwise action upon the Japanese government in making public the confidential information passed on by Yu Ching-ho and himself as to China's proposals for the restoration of Shantung.

He says that the Chinese government expects no benefit as regards the Shantung issue from the Washington conference, but that public opinion forces it to put the matter before the conference.

Some Shanghai Ghosts In Annals Of Police Dept.

By Elsie McCormick

Now that the Dixwell Road ghost threatens to materialise into something that fits the prisoner's box at the Mixed Court as if it were especially cut out for him, the phantom has gathered up its overgrown petticoats and glided off the front page. Simultaneously the Psychical Research Society has retired sadly into winter quarters, and Shanghai residents have lost another opportunity of saying, "Well, this ghost story is true, because I was right in China when it happened and nobody has been able to explain it, not even the police."

The disappearance of a gold bangle around the time that the ghost was working itself up into a perspiration ringing bells and demolishing dishes is not the kind of evidence that looks well in the chronicles of the shadow world. Respectable ghosts in good standing with the union are not supposed to be fond of gold bangles, though personally we wouldn't blame them if they borrowed something to keep their draperies up. It must be rather difficult to lift tables, break trays of dishes, and keep a shroud on at the same time. One often hears that there are no pockets in shrouds. Neither, as far as we have been able to find out, are there any button-holes.

SOME SHANGHAI GHOSTS

But even though some may agree that a ghost in the Mixed Court is worth three in the home, there have been phantoms in Shanghai that were never enrolled on the judiciary docket. Keeping step with the march of the Settlement's history a phantom procession has glided silently on, at least if local tradition can be believed. Some of the cases were authenticated by police investigation, others became known when frightened families departed hastily for a new address, and still others are commemorated to this day by vacant rooms or a changed street number.

The most remarkable episode in the annals of Shanghai shadow lore, according to Mr. William Armstrong, head of the Department of Criminal Investigation, is the fire case that occurred about thirteen years ago on Takoo Road. A Chinese reported to the Police Department that fires had been breaking out all day in his home, furniture, clothing and inflammable articles of every description going up suddenly in spontaneous combustion. Mr. Armstrong went to the address and while he and another detective were talking, the Chinese house-owner exclaimed, "There! That's what I mean!" The foreign officers turned in time to see the contents of a waste-basket burst into flames.

27 FIRES IN DAY

Despite the fact that the police, including a foreign detective, were constantly on watch, twenty-seven fires broke out in the house in twenty-four hours. Smoke was seen issuing from the inside of a locked safe and the owner, when he opened it, found valuable papers in flames. A few minutes later, a detective who observed smoke rolling from the edges of a cardboard box, discovered that tissue paper inside was burning merrily, but that the cardboard cover was not even browned. Before this fire was extinguished, clothing had burst into a blaze in a vacant room upstairs.

MOTOR CAR MEN TO 'REHEARSE' BIG SHOW SATURDAY

All Exhibitors To Gather At Verdun Gardens To Discuss Arrangements

All the exhibitors at the forthcoming automobile show will be asked to meet at the show buildings in Verdun Gardens next Saturday afternoon for a final discussion of arrangements for the show. This was decided upon at the regular weekly meeting of the executive committee at the Palace hotel last evening. Chairman Honigsberg, of the House Committee, will be present at the meeting Saturday, and will be glad to receive suggestions from the exhibitors concerning arrangements.

The meeting Saturday is to be a sort of "dress rehearsal" for the motor car and accessory exhibition which opens November 26. At this meeting Chairman Honigsberg, of the House Committee, will have one of the booths decorated and arranged as it will appear during the show, and from this "sample" booth the exhibitors will be asked to agree on plans for decorating their individual booths. At the meeting last evening there was a discussion of the lengths to which the exhibitors could go in their advertising signs for their individual booths, and some were of the opinion that the limits prescribed by Mr. Honigsberg in his letter to exhibitors were unduly restrictive.

The House Committee chairman submitted photographs of automobile shows in other countries to show that his committee had been unusually liberal in its estimates. And finally, to settle the question definitely, he suggested the meeting Saturday, which was accepted as the most feasible plan.

Chairman White of the building committee announced at last night's meeting that the big buildings now under construction for the exhibition at Verdun Gardens were entirely under roof, and that they would be ready for the decorators in three more days. Work was started on the dance pavilion floor yesterday, and will be completed in three days. It is estimated that the decorators will require about one week to complete their work, after which the show buildings will be turned over to the exhibitors for the installation of displays.

While nothing official has been given out, it is known that the

MY ONE REGRET IS LIVES WERE LOST

Former Royalties Undisturbed Over Outcome While Supporters Are Plunged In Gloom—Calmly Await Exile From Their Former Dominions

BY DOROTHY THOMPSON

BUDAPEST, Nov. 1.—In an interview today with Former Emperor Karl and the Former Express Zita at Esterhazy Castle where they are held prisoners, Karl declared:

"It may be that the public opinion of the world will believe me responsible for this civil war, but I would not spill a drop of blood for a thousand thrones."

"The resistance of my own people," the Former Emperor continued, "is something for which I could not be prepared. Surely, the world knows that I made no attempt to enter Budapest by force of arms and contrary to the wishes of my people.

ONLY A BODYGUARD

"My forces were only a bodyguard of honor and were ordered not to fire. When Colonel Ostenburg reported that to proceed we should have to fight, I ordered him to withdraw.

"My one regret is for the lives lost and the men wounded."

The Former Emperor and Empress are both calm and undisturbed. While their entourage, including Count Andrassy, Cratz, and Rakovsky, are plunged in gloom, they still pay royal honors in accordance with ancient ceremony to the defeated pair of prisoners who are awaiting exile. The whole scene is replete with drama.

Balkan War Again Looms Over The Czechs Ultimatum

Paris, Nov. 1.—Serious concern is felt here over the chances for another Balkan war as the result of the ultimatum delivered by Czecho-Slovakia to Hungary demanding the deposition of Karl and the payment of the costs of the Czecho-Slovak mobilisation.

The Council of Ambassadors has let it be known that it disapproves Czecho-Slovakia's demands and is bringing pressure to bear to induce them to withdraw them. The Czechs, however, refuse to modify their demands, and plan an invasion of Hungary unless they are granted.

KARL WONT SIGN

London, Oct. 31.—It is announced in London that the Little Entente has been informed that the Great Powers will strongly disapprove active intervention against Hungary at present.

Bridge Award Given To Belgians Despite Protests

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Nov. 1.—The Belgian Group has been awarded the contract for the new Yellow River Bridge on the Peking-Hankow Line, north of Kaifeng in Honan Province, it is reliably reported today. It is understood that the structure will cost about $10,000,000.(Mex.) An announcement will probably be made by the Ministry of Communications today.

The Belgian Group is a combination of Belgian and French capital and it is understood that an agreement has been entered into with representatives of British firms whereby much of the steel will be secured from England.

SAYS PRICE IS EXCESSIVE

Much interest centers in the expected announcement of the Ministry of Communications regarding the contract as it has been the subject of charges against and by the famous American engineer, Dr. John L. Waddell, who has asserted that the bridge could be built for five or six millions of dollars.

The Societe d'Etude et de Construction which is made up of the Societe Belge de Chemins de fer En Chine and the Compagnie General de Chemins fer et de Tramways en Chine, Brussels, submitted two tenders as follows:

The new bridge will be approximately 2,880 meters in length and will be about the same as the present Belgian bridge over the Yellow River.

FREEMAN BID REJECTED

There were 19 tenders submitted including that of John R. Freeman, the famous hydraulic engineer, of Providence, R. I. The Freeman bid was rejected as being incomplete and is now a topic of diplomatic correspondence.

With the exception of the tender submitted by the Cleveland Bridge and Engineering Company, Ltd., all bids were over $8,000,000. The Cleveland Company wanted to build the bridge for $5,165,232.78.

MURDER CHARGE TO BE FRAMED AGAINST INDIAN

Intimation that a charge of murder will be framed against Harawan Singh, the Sikh watchman accused of killing a fellow countryman—Mangal Singh—was given yesterday by Magistrate G. W. King at the preliminary hearing in the British Police Court. The hearing was again adjourned, until 10 o'clock this morning, after the prosecution, conducted by Mr. R. C. Faithfull, had closed. Mr. J. G. Priestwood is appearing for the accused.

One of the witnesses, a watchman employed at the Nanking Road branch of the Municipal Electricity Department, said that when he opened the door of the watchman's hut in the alleyway off Kiangse Road he saw three or four men drinking and gambling, accused was sitting on a bed. He ran way as far as the New World. When he returned to the scene of the tragedy he found Mangal Singh lying on the ground in the alleyway, unconscious, surrounded by a crowd of Chinese.

PROSECUTION CLOSES

After Ajagar Singh, another watchman, had given evidence, Mr. Faithfull, submitted that he had made out a prima facie case and the prosecution ended. Mr. King asked him if he had any evidence to give about the deceased. Mr. Faithfull replied that evidence had already been given to prove that he was carried to hospital and died.

Juna Singh, the most important witness, was recalled by defending counsel. He said that when Mangal Singh and accused went out of the room he had no reason to suspect that there was likely to be any trouble. He thought they were going home. He heard no noise, disturbance or quarrel outside, but when he looked in the alleyway he saw Mangal lying on the ground. Accused ran away and so did the other Indians who had been attracted by Juna's shouting.

IN PRISON IN INDIA

Juna said he was 35 years of age when he left his native village in India. Cross-examined by Mr. Priestwood he said that he had been in prison in India for five years for taking part in rioting during which a man was killed. There was no truth in the allegation that he had served six months for ox stealing.

It was also untrue that he had been expelled from his village by his elders for being a bad character. Since leaving India he had been in Russia seven years. When Mr. Priestwood asked him if he had ever been in prison in Russia Mr. King remarked that lots of people had been in prison in Russia.

"Have you had a regular job since you came to Shanghai?" asked counsel.

"Yes I have been employed on ships."

Is that a regular job?

"It is regular for me," replied Juna.

TWO NAVIES SHOT AS ONE, BEATTY TELLS AMERICANS

(Reuter's Service)

Kansas City, Oct. 31.—Earl Beatty, addressing the Convention of the American Legion here today, said that comradeship was the great lesson of the war and the spirit, which animated the fighters, must animate the nations. Referring to the union of the British and American naval forces under his command, he said that the American sailors absorbed their Admiral's conception of comradeship so thoroughly that in the North Sea the operations of British ships were as often commanded by the American Admiral as the American ships here were commanded by British Admirals.

NOTABLES ARE PRESENT

Kansas City, Oct. 31.—The Convention of the American Legion opened here today with a brilliant ceremony. Admiral Earl Beatty, General Jacques and General Diaz made speeches. Marshal Foch, General Pershing, Admiral Coontz and General Crowder were present.

Woods Wishes Defer Anti-Chinese Law On Book-keeping

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 31.—The Philippine Senate has passed the bill, postponing to January 1, 1923, the enforcement of the book-keeping law, which specified that commercial books should be kept only in English, Spanish and the Filipino dialect and which would have driven many Chinese out of business. The House is expected to follow suit today. This action is in conformity with Governor-General Wood's recommendation.

Complainant Missing In Kidnapping Case

The case of Tsang Dzang-hui, who disappeared six months ago—supposedly kidnapped by Chou Zung-chei—was further complicated yesterday by the disappearance of the complainant, his wife.

Tsang, according to the complaint filed by his wife against Chou, is a coolie doctor and was called away from home by the defendant on the pretext that his services were needed by an ailing coolie in the Chinese City. Once in Chinese territory he was placed under arrest and charged with some offense which is alleged to have happened somewhere in Hupeh. Shortly thereafter, the wife declared, Chou came to her and offered to have her husband released and restored to her for the sum of $400. He later reduced the figure to $240, but Mme. Tsang was unable to meet the terms.

Chou was charged with kidnapping at the Mixed Court about two months ago and Mr. H. D. Rodger, for the complainant, endeavored to have application made for Chou's release by the Chinese authorities on the grounds that he had been decoyed to Chinese territory in order that he might be arrested and that there had been no dispatch warrant received from Hupeh.

Replies received from the Chinese authorities were highly ambiguous. Yesterday when the case came up for further hearing Mr. Rodger stated that he was now unable to locate his client, so Chou was released.

DEBT OF BRITAIN NOT TO COME UP AT ARMS PARLEY

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 31.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Mr. Gideon Murray, Sir Robert Horne stated that the Government was not communicating with the American Government with regard to the cancellation of European war debts.

He gathered from the press that no economic questions would be taken up at the Washington Conference. Sir Robert Horne declared that public discussion of these questions tended to create rather than to allay difficulties.

EXPERT DELIVERS TALK ON SILK TO WOMAN'S CLUB

Women of the San Francisco Trade Commission party were guests of honor at yesterday's meeting of the American Woman's Club, which also commemorated the club's twenty-third birthday. In accordance with the annual custom, each member presented the organization with a book for its library, of which Mrs. G. P. Armstrong is in charge. During the preliminary business meeting, the club voted to hold a tea dansant at the Astor House on November seventeenth for the benefit of the American School.

Mr. D. E. Douty, the speaker of the meeting, gave an interesting resume of China's silk industry together with the plans for its future development. America, he said, has bought more silk during the past fifteen years than all the other countries of the world combined and eighty percent of its purchases came from Japan, about nine percent from China, and the rest from Europe.

The United States has over $400,000,000 invested in silk mills, but despite climatic advantages will never be a silk raising country, as it would be impossible to secure workers to compete with the twenty-cent-a-day labor of China. Mr. Douty emphasised that in order to stimulate silk production in China, it would be necessary to make the industry more profitable to the Chinese. Lessons in sericulture are being given by an international committee to farmers throughout several provinces, in order to bring production up to its maximum.

With France erased as a silk-growing country and Italy fast following suit, China's industrial possibilities have increased during recent years to an extent undreamed of a short time ago.

WOULD KEEP UP SURTAX

Peking, Nov. 1.—The Bureau of Relief has petitioned that Mr Shu Shu-chang, vice-minister of communications and brother of the president, as director. It is also considering the question as to whether or not it will ask for a continuance of the famine surtaxes. Formal announcements will be made in a day or two.

SHOW US! SAY FRENCH TO DEBT OFFER OF SOVIET

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 31.—The French press generally shows scepticism with regard to the Soviet offer to repay pre-war debts.

The Intransigeant declares that at first sight it appears a serious offer but it is not the same if looked into. It does not contain a word about reimbursement for the confiscations, which the Soviets carried out in 1917. Not a word about the loans made to Russia during the war, which permitted her to maintain the integrity of Russian territory against the German invasion and not a word about the method of payment.

The journal asks whether the proceeds of the confiscations will be handed over to holders of Russian coupons. The offer of a conference and of a peace based on recognition of the Soviets can only be received with scepticism.

Some Local Ghosts Which The Police Helped To Down

As these fires broke out under the observation of the detectives, there was no possibility that they were ignited by servants, Mr. Armstrong examined articles in the house for traces of a phosphoric solution, but could find no indication whatever of inflammable chemicals.

GHOST HEEDS TAOIST

The free demonstration of rapid firing continued despite watching and precautions until the house-owner sent a hurry call for a Taoist priest. His reverence arrived in 0.00 flat, tripping up over hastily adjusted vestments and carrying a copious handful of red paper. This, it turned out, was a proclamation of warning, telling the high-temperature spirits that if they didn't pack their suitcases that night, he would return in the morning and read some prayers that were peculiarly rough on ghosts. Whether they were driven away by the threat of prayers or by the raw material for music which was exuded by the accompanying priestly orchestra will never be known. It happened, however, that no more fires broke out in the house on Takoo Road and also that the Police Department, despite all its efforts, never came a step nearer to a solution.

Then there was the voice mystery of Pakhoi Road, the leading role in which was played by some nobulous lady who was entirely immaterial except for conversation. A Chinese family reported that she began the day by the announcement, "I'm here," after which she chatted fluently on various topics, interspersed by rappings on a wooden partition, and finally ended her visit by a request that the family open the front door. A foreigner who visited the house reported that the voice called him by name when he entered, although he was unknown to the family, and then volunteered some information about his wife at home.

Calling in a Taoist priest isn't always an infallible remedy for laying a spook, even in China, for when a gentleman of the cloth appeared at the Pakhoi Road residence, the voice told him to "roll out"—which is the best Nanking Road slang for 'beating it.' The priest accordingly rolled, without even stopping to loosen up his proclamation, and the voice continued to express itself freely, untroubled by religious censorship. Two other foreigners reported hearing the voice, though it remained strangely silent in the presence of the Police Department. It finally announced one day that the family would be foolish to move as it was about to be reborn in an animal, after a few polite remarks, it lapsed into silence and has never tried to unlapse since.

There are other tales of the supernatural in Shanghai—the old policeman of the Soochow Creek district, for instance, who was said to have walked the beat faithfully for years after his ancestral tablet had been set up, the house in Medhurst Road where six deaths in close succession caused rapid vacating on the part both of foreign owners and Chinese help, and another residence on Robison Road that was once the scene of a murder and which was hastily deserted after the foreign occupants had had a few nocturnal sessions with scuffling feet and slanking chains. The Medhurst Road residence had the curse taken off to the owner's satisfaction by a change of number, while the Robison Road house has been made over into a factory.

Being located on the site of an old execution ground, the British Post Office is regarded by many Chinese as haunted territory. In former years, coolies and watchmen reported many an apparition, but the new generation has forgotten the nesting-place of capital punishment and accordingly the B. P. O. phantoms are sharing in the general slump of business.

Though the Chinese consider the Settlement less ghost-infested than their own cities, they nevertheless believe that the local spirits are by no means confined to buffets. At the Queen of Heaven Temple in North Honan Road, there are two poles with saucerlike projections that make them resemble a pair of giant candlesticks. The idea is that evil spirits caverting gaily in the morning breezes will crash headlong against the poles and then do a Steve Brodie into the waiting saucers, where they can be picked up at leisure by spiritual garbage collectors.

Anyone observing a new building in process of erection will note bits of shrubbery tied to the bamboo posts. The wily Chinese contractor hopes thus to entangle any spirits with unpleasant intentions and close their careers by burning the brush before the house is completed.

A great deal of trouble in the world, according to the Chinese, is due to fox-spirits who by moonlight are said to "imbibe the othereal essence of Heaven and Earth." "They dig up the graves of the dead and place the skulls on their foreheads," says ancient Chinese lore, "They then look up to the North Pole and bow to the Starry Host. If the skulls do not fall off while they perform this rite, they change into lovely and fascinating females."

Legend doesn't say whether or not these females are particularly addicted to the fox-trot.

According to Mr. Bell's report the Tibetans now appear to be anxious to open their country to modern civilisation and are willing to enter into a semi-direct treaty with Britain as they are alarmed at the approach of Bolshevist emissaries to Tibet through Chinese Turkestan, the deposition of the Hutukmtu of Mongolia and the growth of Soviet influence in Mongolia.

It is reported that Mr. Bell outlined the terms of a treaty which would satisfy the aspirations of the Tibetans for wider intercourse with India and allay their fears of Bolshevist aggression.

Shanghai motor car and accessory men are preparing exhibits for the forthcoming show that will equal and in some instances surpass anything in the line of automobile show exhibits ever shown anywhere. In many of the Shanghai motor shops some beautiful displays are being prepared, and it is safe to say that many of the cars that will be seen at the show will prove "eye openers."

Chairman White announced at the meeting last night that the entire floor of the main exhibition building, covering more than 65,000 square feet, is to be overlaid with a special covering, to give a uniform appearance to all the booths. This covering will blend with the decorative scheme and add immeasurably to the beauty of the show.

The posters for advertising the show are now off the press and distribution of them will begin today. At last night's meeting Chairman Hashagen, of the advertising committee, gave an outline of his plans for giving publicity to the show. These plans include an extensive advertising campaign in all the outports, with particular attention to interesting the Chinese in Shanghai and other cities. Many of the big Shanghai firms will distribute advertising literature through their branch houses in this part of China.

Messrs. White and Honigsberg, of the Building and House Committees, respectively, will meet representatives of the Insurance Association at Verdun Gardens this morning, to discuss insurance for the show.

Last night's meeting of the executive committee was attended by all the twenty members, and was presided over by Chairman C. R. Burkill.

LL. GEORGE WINS HIS FIGHT OVER IRISH QUESTION

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 31.—There was a large attendance in the House of Commons today on the occasion of the fulldress debate on the Unionist resolution disapproving the Government's action in entering the Irish peace negotiations with Sinn Fein.

Col. John Gretton led the attack. He denied that the resolution was tantamount to a vote of censure and declared that Irish Republicans were gradually ousting the King's Government from Ireland and advocated that the rebels be severely dealt with. His speech evoked frequent cheering.

The Prime Minister, who was assured of the support of the Labor Party, the Independent-Liberals and the majority of the Coalition members, strenuously defended the Government in their attempts to exhaust every means to bring about a peaceful settlement, consistent with the safety and honor of the British Empire.

He said that, if the Conference broke down—and it might—the first thing the Government would have to do would be to ask the House considerably to strengthen the Crown Forces in Ireland.

The motion was rejected by 439 votes to 43.

MURDER CHARGE TO BE FRAMED AGAINST INDIAN

Intimation that a charge of murder will be framed against Sarawan Singh, the Sikh watchman accused of killing a fellow countryman—Mangal Singh—was given yesterday by Magistrate G. W. King at the preliminary hearing in the British Police Court. The hearing was again adjourned, until 10 o'clock this morning, after the prosecution, conducted by Mr. R. C. Faithfull, had closed. Mr. J. G. Priestwood is appearing for the accused.

One of the witnesses, a watchman employed at the Nanking Road branch of the Municipal Electricity Department, said that when he opened the door of the watchman's hut in the alleyway off Kiangse Road he saw three or four men drinking and gambling, accused was sitting on a bed. He ran way as far as the New World. When he returned to the scene of the tragedy he found Mangal Singh lying on the ground in the alleyway, unconscious, surrounded by a crowd of Chinese.

PROSECUTION CLOSES

After Ajagar Singh, another watchman, had given evidence, Mr. Faithfull, submitted that he had made out a prima facie case and the prosecution ended. Mr. King asked him if he had any evidence to give about the deceased. Mr. Faithfull replied that evidence had already been given to prove that he was carried to hospital and died.

Juna Singh, the most important witness, was recalled by defending counsel. He said that when Mangal Singh and accused went out of the room he had no reason to suspect that there was likely to be any trouble. He thought they were going home. He heard no noise, disturbance or quarrel outside, but when he looked in the alleyway he saw Mangal lying on the ground. Accused ran away and so did the other Indians who had been attracted by Juna's shouting.

IN PRISON IN INDIA

Juna said he was 35 years of age when he left his native village in India. Cross-examined by Mr. Priestwood he said that he had been in prison in India for five years for taking part in rioting during which a man was killed. There was no truth in the allegation that he had served six months for ox stealing.

It was also untrue that he had been expelled from his village by his elders for being a bad character. Since leaving India he had been in Russia seven years. When Mr. Priestwood asked him if he had ever been in prison in Russia Mr. King remarked that lots of people had been in prison in Russia.

"Have you had a regular job since you came to Shanghai?" asked counsel.

"Yes I have been employed on ships."

Is that a regular job?

"It is regular for me," replied Juna.

TWO NAVIES SHOT AS ONE, BEATTY TELLS AMERICANS

(Reuter's Service)

Kansas City, Oct. 31.—Earl Beatty, addressing the Convention of the American Legion here today, said that comradeship was the great lesson of the war and the spirit, which animated the fighters, must animate the nations. Referring to the union of the British and American naval forces under his command, he said that the American sailors absorbed their Admiral's conception of comradeship so thoroughly that in the North Sea the operations of British ships were as often commanded by the American Admiral as the American ships here were commanded by British Admirals.

NOTABLES ARE PRESENT

Kansas City, Oct. 31.—The Convention of the American Legion opened here today with a brilliant ceremony. Admiral Earl Beatty, General Jacques and General Diaz made speeches. Marshal Foch, General Pershing, Admiral Coontz and General Crowder were present.

Woods Wishes Defer Anti-Chinese Law On Book-keeping

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 31.—The Philippine Senate has passed the bill, postponing to January 1, 1923, the enforcement of the book-keeping law, which specified that commercial books should be kept only in English, Spanish and the Filipino dialect and which would have driven many Chinese out of business. The House is expected to follow suit today. This action is in conformity with Governor-General Wood's recommendation.

Complainant Missing In Kidnapping Case

The case of Tsang Dzang-hui, who disappeared six months ago—supposedly kidnapped by Chou Zung-chei—was further complicated yesterday by the disappearance of the complainant, his wife.

Tsang, according to the complaint filed by his wife against Chou, is a coolie doctor and was called away from home by the defendant on the pretext that his services were needed by an ailing coolie in the Chinese City. Once in Chinese territory he was placed under arrest and charged with some offense which is alleged to have happened somewhere in Hupeh. Shortly thereafter, the wife declared, Chou came to her and offered to have her husband released and restored to her for the sum of $400. He later reduced the figure to $240, but Mme. Tsang was unable to meet the terms.

Chou was charged with kidnapping at the Mixed Court about two months ago and Mr. H. D. Rodger, for the complainant, endeavored to have application made for Chou's release by the Chinese authorities on the grounds that he had been decoyed to Chinese territory in order that he might be arrested and that there had been no dispatch warrant received from Hupeh.

Replies received from the Chinese authorities were highly ambiguous. Yesterday when the case came up for further hearing Mr. Rodger stated that he was now unable to locate his client, so Chou was released.

DEBT OF BRITAIN NOT TO COME UP AT ARMS PARLEY

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 31.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Mr. Gideon Murray, Sir Robert Horne stated that the Government was not communicating with the American Government with regard to the cancellation of European war debts.

He gathered from the press that no economic questions would be taken up at the Washington Conference. Sir Robert Horne declared that public discussion of these questions tended to create rather than to allay difficulties.

EXPERT DELIVERS TALK ON SILK TO WOMAN'S CLUB

Women of the San Francisco Trade Commission party were guests of honor at yesterday's meeting of the American Woman's Club, which also commemorated the club's twenty-third birthday. In accordance with the annual custom, each member presented the organization with a book for its library, of which Mrs. G. P. Armstrong is in charge. During the preliminary business meeting, the club voted to hold a tea dansant at the Astor House on November seventeenth for the benefit of the American School.

Mr. D. E. Douty, the speaker of the meeting, gave an interesting resume of China's silk industry together with the plans for its future development. America, he said, has bought more silk during the past fifteen years than all the other countries of the world combined and eighty percent of its purchases came from Japan, about nine percent from China, and the rest from Europe.

The United States has over $400,000,000 invested in silk mills, but despite climatic advantages will never be a silk raising country, as it would be impossible to secure workers to compete with the twenty-cent-a-day labor of China. Mr. Douty emphasised that in order to stimulate silk production in China, it would be necessary to make the industry more profitable to the Chinese. Lessons in sericulture are being given by an international committee to farmers throughout several provinces, in order to bring production up to its maximum.

With France erased as a silk-growing country and Italy fast following suit, China's industrial possibilities have increased during recent years to an extent undreamed of a short time ago.

Peking, Nov. 1.—The Bureau of Relief has petitioned that Mr Shu Shu-chang, vice-minister of communications and brother of the president, as director. It is also considering the question as to whether or not it will ask for a continuance of the famine surtaxes. Formal announcements will be made in a day or two.

SHOW US! SAY FRENCH TO DEBT OFFER OF SOVIET

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 31.—The French press generally shows scepticism with regard to the Soviet offer to repay pre-war debts.

The Intransigeant declares that at first sight it appears a serious offer but it is not the same if looked into. It does not contain a word about reimbursement for the confiscations, which the Soviets carried out in 1917. Not a word about the loans made to Russia during the war, which permitted her to maintain the integrity of Russian territory against the German invasion and not a word about the method of payment.

The journal asks whether the proceeds of the confiscations will be handed over to holders of Russian coupons. The offer of a conference and of a peace based on recognition of the Soviets can only be received with scepticism.

Some Local Ghosts Which The Police Helped To Down

As these fires broke out under the observation of the detectives, there was no possibility that they were ignited by servants. Mr. Armstrong examined articles in the house for traces of a phosphoric solution, but could find no indication whatever of inflammable chemicals.

GHOST HEEDS TAOIST

The free demonstration of rapid firing continued despite watching and precautions until the house-owner sent a hurry call for a Taoist priest. His reverence arrived in 0.00 flat, tripping up over hastily adjusted vestments and carrying a copious handful of red paper. This, it turned out, was a proclamation of warning, telling the high-temperature spirits that if they didn't pack their suitcases that night, he would return in the morning and read some prayers that were peculiarly rough on ghosts. Whether they were driven away by the threat of prayers or by the raw material for music which was exuded by the accompanying priestly orchestra will never be known. It happened, however, that no more fires broke out in the house on Takoo Road and also that the Police Department, despite all its efforts, never came a step nearer to a solution.

Then there was the voice mystery of Pakhoi Road, the leading role in which was played by some nobulous lady who was entirely immaterial except for conversation. A Chinese family reported that she began the day by the announcement, "I'm here," after which she chatted fluently on various topics, interspersed by rappings on a wooden partition, and finally ended her visit by a request that the family open the front door. A foreigner who visited the house reported that the voice called him by name when he entered, although he was unknown to the family, and then volunteered some information about his wife at home.

Calling in a Taoist priest isn't always an infallible remedy for laying a spook, even in China, for when a gentleman of the cloth appeared at the Pakhoi Road residence, the voice told him to "roll out"—which is the best Nanking Road slang for 'beating it.' The priest accordingly rolled, without even stopping to loosen up his proclamation, and the voice continued to express itself freely, untroubled by religious censorship. Two other foreigners reported hearing the voice, though it remained strangely silent in the presence of the Police Department. It finally announced one day that the family would be foolish to move as it was about to be reborn in an animal, after a few polite remarks, it lapsed into silence and has never tried to unlapse since.

There are other tales of the supernatural in Shanghai—the old policeman of the Soochow Creek district, for instance, who was said to have walked the beat faithfully for years after his ancestral tablet had been set up, the house in Medhurst Road where six deaths in close succession caused rapid vacating on the part both of foreign owners and Chinese help, and another residence on Robison Road that was once the scene of a murder and which was hastily deserted after the foreign occupants had had a few nocturnal sessions with scuffling feet and slanking chains. The Medhurst Road residence had the curse taken off to the owner's satisfaction by a change of number, while the Robison Road house has been made over into a factory.

Being located on the site of an old execution ground, the British Post Office is regarded by many Chinese as haunted territory. In former years, coolies and watchmen reported many an apparition, but the new generation has forgotten the nesting-place of capital punishment and accordingly the B. P. O. phantoms are sharing in the general slump of business.

Though the Chinese consider the Settlement less ghost-infested than their own cities, they nevertheless believe that the local spirits are by no means confined to buffets. At the Queen of Heaven Temple in North Honan Road, there are two poles with saucerlike projections that make them resemble a pair of giant candlesticks. The idea is that evil spirits caverting gaily in the morning breezes will crash headlong against the poles and then do a Steve Brodie into the waiting saucers, where they can be picked up at leisure by spiritual garbage collectors.

Anyone observing a new building in process of erection will note bits of shrubbery tied to the bamboo posts. The wily Chinese contractor hopes thus to entangle any spirits with unpleasant intentions and close their careers by burning the brush before the house is completed.

A great deal of trouble in the world, according to the Chinese, is due to fox-spirits who by moonlight are said to "imbibe the othereal essence of Heaven and Earth." "They dig up the graves of the dead and place the skulls on their foreheads," says ancient Chinese lore, "They then look up to the North Pole and bow to the Starry Host. If the skulls do not fall off while they perform this rite, they change into lovely and fascinating females."

Legend doesn't say whether or not these females are particularly addicted to the fox-trot.

Calcutta, October 31.—Lord Ronaldshay, the Governor of Bengal, the Raja of Sikhim and Major Bailey, formerly British Agent at Gyantse, Tibet, met at Phari, Mr. Bell, formerly Political Officer at Sikhim, who has been at Lhasa for over a year on a special mission, clearing up the tangled relations between Tibet, China and Britain.

According to Mr. Bell's report the Tibetans now appear to be anxious to open their country to modern civilisation and are willing to enter into a semi-direct treaty with Britain as they are alarmed at the approach of Bolshevist emissaries to Tibet through Chinese Turkestan, the deposition of the Hutukmtu of Mongolia and the growth of Soviet influence in Mongolia.

It is reported that Mr. Bell outlined the terms of a treaty which would satisfy the aspirations of the Tibetans for wider intercourse with India and allay their fears of Bolshevist aggression.

Shanghai motor car and accessory men are preparing exhibits for the forthcoming show that will equal and in some instances surpass anything in the line of automobile show exhibits ever shown anywhere. In many of the Shanghai motor shops some beautiful displays are being prepared, and it is safe to say that many of the cars that will be seen at the show will prove "eye openers."

Chairman White announced at the meeting last night that the entire floor of the main exhibition building, covering more than 65,000 square feet, is to be overlaid with a special covering, to give a uniform appearance to all the booths. This covering will blend with the decorative scheme and add immeasurably to the beauty of the show.

The posters for advertising the show are now off the press and distribution of them will begin today. At last night's meeting Chairman Hashagen, of the advertising committee, gave an outline of his plans for giving publicity to the show. These plans include an extensive advertising campaign in all the outports, with particular attention to interesting the Chinese in Shanghai and other cities. Many of the big Shanghai firms will distribute advertising literature through their branch houses in this part of China.

Messrs. White and Honigsberg, of the Building and House Committees, respectively, will meet representatives of the Insurance Association at Verdun Gardens this morning, to discuss insurance for the show.

Last night's meeting of the executive committee was attended by all the twenty members, and was presided over by Chairman C. R. Burkill.

LL. GEORGE WINS HIS FIGHT OVER IRISH QUESTION

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 31.—There was a large attendance in the House of Commons today on the occasion of the fulldress debate on the Unionist resolution disapproving the Government's action in entering the Irish peace negotiations with Sinn Fein.

Col. John Gretton led the attack. He denied that the resolution was tantamount to a vote of censure and declared that Irish Republicans were gradually ousting the King's Government from Ireland and advocated that the rebels be severely dealt with. His speech evoked frequent cheering.

The Prime Minister, who was assured of the support of the Labor Party, the Independent-Liberals and the majority of the Coalition members, strenuously defended the Government in their attempts to exhaust every means to bring about a peaceful settlement, consistent with the safety and honor of the British Empire.

He said that, if the Conference broke down—and it might—the first thing the Government would have to do would be to ask the House considerably to strengthen the Crown Forces in Ireland.

The motion was rejected by 439 votes to 43.

OIL BURNER NOW OVER COAL USER

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 31.—The annual report of Lloyd's Register shows that the new tonnage, classed by the Society during the year, ending June 30, had decreased by 25 percent as compared with the year 1919-20. Following the great decrease in new orders in 1919-20 there have been such extensive reductions in the plans, submitted to the Society during recent months, as to indicate an unprecedented slump in new tonnage in 1921-22. The oil-tankers built in 1920-21 equal 18 percent of the total tonnage, while 353 new ships, or 58 percent are fitted for oil-burning, for the first time in the history of the Society, more oil-burners than coal-burners were built.

Briton Questions Attitude Of Japan On Shantung

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 31.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. G. N. Barnes drew attention to "the attempts of Japan to force China to settle the Shantung question before the Washington Conference met."

He asked whether Britain approved these methods and whether, since China strongly objected to the Japanese proposals, the Government would suggest to the Tokio authorities that prospects of partial disarmament would not be improved by the adoption of demands of this nature.

Mr. Austin Chamberlain replied that he was unaware of any such intention on the part of Japan as imputed to her in the question and hoped the presence of representatives of the countries concerned at Washington would afford an opportunity for reaching a satisfactory settlement within or outside the Conference. The Government did not propose to intervene as suggested.

MAY BRING BIG LOAN

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Oct. 31.—The arrival of the Chinese delegates at Washington was marked by semi-official expression of the American expectation that among the subjects to be discussed at the Conference would be the formation of an international consortium for financing China with a view to the conclusion of a loan agreement with the Chinese delegation.

NOW ARE AMBASSADORS

present was only 40 percent of the normal.

Colonel Harvey appealed for Anglo-American union.

"If we cannot act in unison now there is slight hope that we ever shall," he concluded.

OPEN ARMS AND HEARTS

Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Ambassador, replied with a short speech, concluding:

"Washington is receiving the delegates with open arms. The delegates are going there with open hearts. The success of the Conference is almost assured before it commences."

Mr. Balfour responded to the toast. He declared that the two utterances had clearly demonstrated the spirit in which America and Japan were entering the Conference. He earnestly hoped that Mr. Lloyd George would be able to go to Washington, if only for a short time. Nobody was so capable of representing the British interests.

They would meet animated with the firm determination not to separate without doing something for mankind.

TOKUGAWA TO DEMUR

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Oct. 31.—Prince Tokugawa, interviewed with regard to the Washington Conference, significantly remarked that, generally speaking, he personally hoped that the questions between China and Japan would be kept out of the Conference because it was better to solve them directly between the countries concerned.

WUCHANG ASKS FUNDS

CONQUER WU'S TROOPS

(Special To The China Press)

Canton, Oct. 31.—The Canonese troops in Szechuen report that they have engaged General Wu Pei-fu's troops in battle and are compelling them to hand over arms and ammunition. They further report that they have retaken Patung, and ask for reinforcements.

PEKING CRIES FOR AID

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 29.—In order that proper defense measures may be prepared to meet the proposed attack of the Canton Government on the North, the Bureau of the General Staff has sent out instructions to the military authorities of Fukien and Kiangsi for joint defense against the troops of Sun Yat-sen. The President has also telegraphed to General Wu Pei-fu ordering him to proceed to the capital as soon as possible. Whether or not General Wu will actually come to Peking, however, is not yet known.

Instructions have been sent to General Hsiao Yao-nan, Chi Hsieh-yuan, and Chang Wen-sheng to make all the preparations necessary for a joint defense of the three provinces of Hupeh, Kiangsu, and Anhui and to carry out two special measures. The first of these is that General Hsiao is to mark out the defensive area and take all responsibility for the positions on the Upper Yangtsze while the second is that General Chi is to take similar responsibility for the positions along the Lower Yangtsze and is also to take charge of the maritime defense.

Sea-Sickness Can be Prevented!
No Drugging—No Unpleasant After-Effects.

An appreciative doctor wrote:—

"Lady——was placed under my care for the voyage Home. I could not accept any responsibility as I considered she was in great danger from haemorrhage should she vomit. She had always been a very bad sailor. As a precaution she was given two capsules of 'KIRBY'S SEA-SICK CURE' immediately she went on board. We got into rough water shortly before midnight, but Lady——had an undisturbed night's rest. She took one capsule half-an-hour before dressing. She had breakfast in the dining hall, and assured me she had no sensation of nausea or sickness. Although we had rough weather for five days, and at other periods of the voyage, she was not sea-sick. There was no nausea of any kind, and the remedy produced no after-effects."

Athletic Stadium Plan Of Shanghai Promoters In Country-wide Canvas

Sports Bowl Big Enough To Accommodate Worlds Olympics Is Projected; Committee Plans International Games Each Spring; Site Will Probably Be At St. Johns

An athletic stadium with a seating capacity sufficient to accommodate a worlds Olympic will be constructed in Shanghai within the year if preliminary plans now being discussed by promoters of athletics among Chinese carry through. A campaign for funds over all of China will be begun soon.

The stadium is also intended to be used for international athletic meets annually.

Dr. John H. Gray, National Physical Director of the Young Men's Christian Association in China and representative here of the World Olympic Committee, has agreed to aid in the project and it is expected that an influential Chinese committee, probably headed by Dr. C. T. Wang, will be named as soon as the details are worked out.

Talk of a stadium for the Far Eastern Games, followed the big athletic meeting held in Shanghai last Spring when inadequate facilities at the Hongkew Park made watching the games practically impossible except for a few thousand. On three days the attendance passed the 35,000 mark.

At the time St. John's University agreed to donate land for the athletic plant and also expressed willingness to be responsible for its upkeep. A definite decision was then reached by the China Contest Committee which conducted the Far Eastern Games, to make the campaign for funds.

Famine was followed by floods and war and the opportunity was not offered. The start after the money is now possible as the famine has abated and flood relief is well in hand. Wars will always be prevalent in China but the business man has a happy faculty of fighting shy of the intersectional disputes. China can easily subscribe funds for the plant at this time.

Dr. Gray has returned from a trip which took him into Northern and Western China and he reports that interest in athletics is rapidly increasing.

"The Far Eastern Championships held here in the Spring did much to convince China that a nation-wide campaign must be made for material if this country is going to hold up her athletic head with Japan and the Philippine Islands," Dr. Gray said.

Dr. Gray is the man behind the plans for an annual open international athletic meet to be held in Shanghai.

"Such an institution would serve to keep up interest in China and help develop a China team for the games to be held in Japan in 1922," he said. "It will also offer Chinese athletes the opportunity to compete with foreigners and will create interest in track and field sports among foreigners in Shanghai."

Police Meet Navy Marines Today At 3

The following team has been selected to represent the Police against the Marines H.M.S. Hawkins in a friendly match to be played on the Police ground today, Kick off 3 p.m. sharp:

CONTENDERS ARE SHY OF SHOWING TRAINING FORM

Within a week of the opening of the fall racing meeting chances generally for the big events are more open than in any of the more important meetings of recent years.

Old Bill, The Oriole., The Hawk, Kings Cross, Invincable King and a half dozen others of the first string ponies likely to run in the Champions, are noticeably absent from the early workouts.

None of the probable contenders for places in the Big Race were out for training gallops on Monday. Trials on the inside course Tuesday were marked by particularly good showing for the mile, especially by Golden Knob, Golden Rod, Seadove, Seabird, and Golden Gate, all of which did the mile around 2:15, with the best showing being made by Golden Knob in 2:14 2/5.

The Copper Bird was clocked at 2:20 3/5 for the mile and Tyneside at 2:17. Peacock continues to show exceptionable form in training. It did the mile Tuesday in 2:16.

Present indications are that another record is to be established in the Champion Sweepstakes. It is now estimated that the big prize, which for the first time in racing history in Shanghai passed the $200,000 mark last spring, next week will go upwards to a quarter of a million dollars.

Last night nearly ten thousand tickets had been sold on the race. The sales are going now at the rate of about one thousand each day.

For the Grand National Steeplechase on Saturday, the final event of note for the fall meet, the winners may probably be selected from a list of five ponies. There are those who believe that Old Bill will repeat his performance of last spring, and take not only the Champions but the Grand National Steeplechase as well. In the last named event however formidable contenders are to be found in Petersfield, Djemnah, Red Pepper, and Liability.

One Final Shot Gives All Comers' Title To .FE. Hodges With A Bullseye

After Tie With Green Second Shoot-Off Gives The Win; Runner-Up Tied Twice In Two Rounds; Lost On Second Extra Round

One final extra shot decided the All-Comer's Rifle Championship of the Shanghai Rifle Association Monday, when with F. G. Green and F. E. Hodges tied at 225 for first honors, the former missed the deciding shot and the latter registered a bulls eye.

Green had also been tied in the first stage of the competition with Y. C. Waung at a score of 97 points. He won that stage in the count off. Monday's shoot-off of the tie went through two stages. The two men tied a second time in the three-shot extra competition, and the final extra shot was taken to decide the whole competition.

The final stage (800 and 1,000 yards) was shot off under good weather conditions. After firing at 800 yards, J. R. Main topped the list with 70, next came Smith 69, Hodges 68 and Tinkham 67. These scores with those of 1st stage, gave Main the lead with 163, Smith 162, Green 161, Hodges, Thomson and Chen with 160 each.

At the 1,000 yards, Tinkham and Hodges topped the list with 65 each followed by Green, Lambert and Snape with 64 each. This score with those of 800 yards and the first stage gave Hodges and Green a tie with 225 points each, Tinkham 2nd with 224, Thomson 223 and Main, Smith and Chen with 121 each.

Hodges and Green then shot off (3 shots). Hodges scored 3, 5, 3 and Green 3, 4, 4 tying again with 11 pts. The Secretary decided to fire one more shot each.

"PRICELESS"

is a popular way of describing anything which has proved to be of exceptional value, and may therefore be employed to describe that old and favourite preparation—Beecham's Pills. The ever-increasing army of men and women who have experience of this excellent medicine generally use some such phrase as "priceless" or "Worth a guinea a box" when speaking of Beecham's Pills. This is certainly high praise. But it is well-merited. Beecham's Pills have proved, times out of number, to be a "priceless" preparation in the treatment of digestive ailments. They bring relief; they safeguard the health; they effect remarkable cures. All who suffer in any way from biliousness, sick headache, constipation, impaired appetite, and the resulting loss of energy and want of tone, should take

THOUSANDS CALL AT NEW MUSEUM OF COMMERCE

Merchandise Exhibit Opened Yesterday Evokes Admiration Of Throngs

As many as 5,000 persons were visitors to the merchandise exhibition held at the Commercial Museum which forms an annex to the building of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce at North Honan Road, when the museum was formally opened yesterday morning.

Mr. C. C. Nieh, Chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, presided at the inauguration ceremony, which was attended by a large gathering of representatives from the local official and commercial bodies. Mr. Ma Hsiang-peh of the Aurora University delivered the principal address, in the course of which he strongly urged the adoption of the motto "Nothing is good enough" in seeking constant improvement in the progressive work which the Museum has undertaken. To get things done said Mr. Ma, the merchants must help themselves and rely little on the Government.

On the ground floor are located the department of fine arts, department of food products, department of agriculture, and department of machinery. On the first floor are found the department of textiles, and the department of manufactures. On the second floor are located the metals and mines department, the marine products department, the chemical products department, the department of drugs, the department of scientific instruments, and the department of animal products.

The variety of products on view are gathered from various parts of the country and the high class of workmanship and creative ability which they bespeak amazed both the foreign and Chinese visitors, and the establishment of the Museum as a permanent organisation for exhibiting Chinese products is regarded as a wise measure filling a long-felt need.

The exhibition will be held for a fortnight and will take place hereafter once annually during the first fourteen days in the month of August. Certificates of merit of four grades will be awarded to exhibitors recommended for such recognition by the judges.

The San Francisco trade party has accepted an invitation to visit the museum in the course of the day today and their criticisms are eagerly looked forward to.

At The Lyceum

Madame Kulichevskaya's fantasie of dolls enlivened to dancing, prancing life of youth, given last night at the Lyceum theater was one of the nicest little entertainments given in Shanghai for some time.

The chief point of value in the spectacle was the dancing of Mme. Svetlanova, as the fairy of the dolls awakened to life, and the doll-like dancing of Mura Shipova as the Talking Bebe.

The scene of the fantasie represented a toy shop. At dark the "Doll's Fairy" revives and with her scepter gives life to the other toys and the shop becomes a kingdom of dolls.

After the interval the Waltz Caprice, by Mura and Koka Shinoff, and the American Dance by Mrs. Tomima and Mr. Brutan, were given great applause.

La Poupee continues tonight.

Football Claims First Victim Of Year

Fairmont (W. Va.),—Matthew Karyachich, aged 20, of Benwood, died in a hospital here on September 18 from injuries received in a football game between two semi-professional teams here.

Karyachich was injured in the second quarter of the game, complaining of pains in the abdomen, but continued to play after a rest.

After the game he was removed to a hospital, where an operation proved unsuccessful.

HARDING THANKS HSU

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 28.—The American Minister, Mr. Jacob Gould Schurman, together with his entire staff, called on the President, Hsu Shih Chang this afternoon at three o'clock to present a letter from President Harding, acknowledging the visit of Mr. Chu Chih-chien, the Chinese President's special emmissary to France, who presented to Mr. Harding the autograph picture of Hsu Shih Chang. ALWAYS THE WOMAN!

THAT'S the cry of the world—ALWAYS the Woman! From dawn to dusk, through beckoning valleys of Romance to the final hour of mortal judgment, Woman is placed on the auction block to bear the burdens of Destiny designed by the mind of man.

But there is a Reckoning as inevitable as the law of life, as sure as the bonds which brought Nancy Abbott and Blair Cornwall triumphant to the gates of Eternal Life—and Love.

In this story of women o the world, you will open the innermost chapters of Humanity; you will see things that you have never seen before. You'll be thrilled and amazed over the swiftly moving events which include spectacular scenes seldom equalled even by the prowess of the magic screen.

Asia Banking Corporation

Asia Banking Corporation
November 1, 1921.

Spot bar silver was down 3/8d. and forward 1/2d. in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 70¾ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 393⅝.

The official quotations were unchanged this morning from yesterday.

However, the market was inclined to be weak, particularly for forward delivery, and the official quotations were dropped to 3/10 for Sterling, 75¼ for Gold Dollars and 64 for Yen.

After the drop in rates the market steadied up and closed at the Tiffin interval with sellers of Sterling for November at 311 and of Gold Dollars at 77.

There were sellers for December at 3/10 and 75½ respectively.

In the afternoon the market firmed up and as high as 4/— for cash and 3/10⅛ for December was done. Gold Dollars were done at 78 for cash and 76 for December. The market closed steady at this leval.

China is reported to have bought silver in London yesterday for cash, and speculators to have sold forward.

The market is stated to have closed steady.

New York advises that there are sellers at the official quotations there, without buyers.

California Trade Mission Leaves Shanghai Tomorrow

Closing Event In Honor Of Visitors To Be Dinner Of Shanghai General Chamber Of Commerce

California's trade mission will spend the last day of its visit to Shanghai today with a varied program of events. The party which numbers 135 persons will leave for Hongkong and Manila tomorrow on the Pacific Mail Liner Empire State which has been remaining in port for the past week while the visitors have been seeing China.

The outstanding event of the day will be the dinner in honor of the visitors that is to be given tonight by the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce at that organisation's headquarters on North Honan Road. At this dinner addresses will be given by Mr. C. C. Nieh, President of the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce, and a response will be made for the Californians by Mr. A. I. Esberg, who is Chairman of the Mission.

OFFICIALS TO ATTEND

Among those who will attend the dinner will be Mr. V. G. Lyman, President of the American Chamber of Commerce, Mr. D. J. Lewis, its Secretary, members of the executive committee of the American Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Julean Arhold, American Commercial Attache, U. S. Trade Commissioners L. W. Meekins and Hoyt, Dr. Frederic Lee, American Economist Consul and Messrs. R. P. Tenney and M. F. Perkins, representing the American Consulate. Due to illness Mr. Cunningham, American Consul-General has been obliged to cancel all engagements.

Preceding the dinner a reception is to be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the American Consulate following which the visitors will be taken on an automobile tour of Shanghai.

Fifty automobiles, fifteen donated by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, will convey the delegation and their ladies on a whirlwind sight-seeing tour which will include a trip about the factory, residential and business districts, a visit to the Loonghwa Pagoda and other sights, ending at Jessfield Park where tea will be served by the American Chamber at Shepherd's Kiosk. An inspection of the Commercial Press plant will be made.

Automobiles are needed for the tour and all Americans who will allow their machines to be used are asked to communicate with Secretary D. J. Lewis of the American Chamber of Commerce at the American Trading Company. Twenty-five more cars are needed. It is planned that a local business man will ride in each car as a guide.

ARRIVE AT PARK AT 4:30

Local business men and their families who desire to meet the delegation at Jessfield Park are advised that the fifty automobiles will arrive there promptly at 4:30 o'clock.

From Jessfield the visitors will be motored to the Customs Jetty where a launch will take them to the steamer Empire State, now moored off the Standard Oil Installation at Pootung where oil is being taken on.

Motor cars will await the delegation at the Customs Jetty at 7.30 o'clock and take them directly to the Chinese Chamber of Commerce dinner.

The tea dance originally planned for this afternoon at the Columbia Country Club has been abandoned.

TRIP TO SOOCHOW

Monday a party of 60 was taken to Soochow by Secretary Lewis of the American Chamber here and a Tiffin was given in honor of the visitors by the Soochow Chamber of Commerce. The Shanghai American Chamber of Commerce made arrangements for the trip through the American Express Company.

At the tiffin speeches were delivered by prominent Soochow business men. They were interpreted by Dr. W. H. Park. Mr. Esberg replied.

Following the tiffin the party enjoyed a sightseeing trip through the famous old city, visiting pagodas, temples, Chinese gardens and other points of interests.

MONTEAGLE OUT WITH MAIL TODAY FOR AMERICA

The Canadian Pacific Ocean Services steamer Monteagle arrives at Woosung from Hongkong this morning and leaves for Vancouver, via Japan ports, at noon. The tender with outgoing passengers will leave the Customs jetty at 8 a.m. and incoming passengers are expected to reach the jetty about noon.

The China Mail steamer Nile, with passengers, mail and cargo from Java ports, Singapore and Hongkong, is due to arrive at the China Merchants Central Wharf at noon today. She will be despatched tomorrow at noon for Hongkong, Singapore, Batavia, Samarang and Sourabaya.

The Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Siberia Maru is also scheduled to reach port today, arriving early this morning from San Francisco, Honolulu, Japan Ports and Dairen. The tender should reach the Customs jetty at about 9:30. The steamer leaves this evening for Hongkong.

The T.K.K. liner Taiyo Maru arrives from Hongkong at midnight tonight and will be despatched for San Francisco, via Japan ports and Honolulu, tomorrow, the tender leaving the Customs jetty at 3 p.m.

Point Of Jurisdiction Raised By Lawyers In Big Jade Theft Case

A question of jurisdiction entered into a case at the Mixed Court yesterday when a Chinese broker was charged with burglary and the theft of $3,200 worth of jade ornaments from the home of one Yih Ming-tsai, 10 Kuling Road.

The defendant was arrested in the French Concession by police of the International and French forces after a report had been received that he was trying to dispose of jade valued at $2,000. Search of his rooms later revealed several ornaments which were identified by the complainant. The broker was tried in the French Mixed Court and fined $300 on the charge of receiving stolen property.

Mr. Tycho Wing, appearing for the accused yesterday, submitted that the trial and conviction in the French court concluded the matter and that the charge preferred against him at that time was the proper one.

Mr. Y. S. Zia, for the complainant, and the police maintain that there is evidence to show that the broker actually participated in the robbery and, since this occurred in the International Settlement, he should be tried for that crime in the International Mixed Court.

American Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Kwan adjourned the hearing one week and a request is to be made to the French court for the file of the proceedings there.

Money And Markets

The following discussion of market condition is sent out by the National Bank of Commerce in New York under date of September 21:

BUSINESS SITUATION

Gains thus far made in industrial activity are real, and there is steady progress toward better business. With the exception of cotton, the crops are reasonably good, and their movement is being reflected in an improved banking position as farmers' obligations are liquidated. Cotton mills, the wool manufacture, and the boot and shoe industry are all holding their improvement of recent months. Although the steel industry is operating at about one-third of capacity, production of both pig iron and steel made fair gains in August. Orders are small, but they have come from widely diversified sources, both geographically and as to consuming industries. Many other industries report slight betterment, and building activity is being remarkably well maintained throughout the country.

There is no justification for any world-wide rise in prices at this time. Producers of raw materials from the farmer to the metal mine operator have taken their losses. Those classes of labor which have accepted wage reductions in keeping with the changed economic situation have likewise taken their losses while other large classes of labor have done so indirectly as a result of unemployment. The conclusion is clear. Retail prices cannot go up without promptly curtailing buying. They must be reduced until they are in line with raw materials.

Because of uncertainty as to what the consumer can and will buy, retailers generally are ordering with great caution, while many wholesalers in turn are refraining from placing advance orders. The adoption, at any stage from manufacturer to consumer, of a policy directed toward generally higher prices to the consumer will not only curtail buying, but will result in showing down the gratifying progress already made. Domestic conditions do not entirely govern. There are international conditions to be reckoned with. The only farsighted policy is the expansion of sales on a narrow margin of profit.

Periods of genuine, as contrasted with artificial prosperity, are never characterised by rapidly rising prices. Approximate price stabilisation is their prerequisite. This follows inevitably from the fact that the first principle of sound business of any sort is operation on the basis of non-speculative profits. The country is yet struggling to recover from the ill effects of excessive speculation.

The United States sells more raw materials in the international market than any other single country. Hence, the purchasing power of a large part of the American consuming public is directly determined by prices of raw materials in that market. In so far as the purchasing power of American labor depends on the exportation of manufactured goods, it is likewise determind by the international market, since American goods produced at costs above those prevailing in other countries cannot be sold abroad.

PROBLEM OF READJUSTMENT

Large classes of labor have taken their losses by severe wage cuts. Among those which have accepted them have been many skilled crafts which have seen that in the long run wages on the new basis will have a purchasing power equivalent to that when wages were higher.

Certain classes of labor contrast unfavorably, however, with labor as a whole. The time is not far distant when not only that uncertain group known as the "general public" but those sections of it consisting of other classes of workers and farmers will have come to a realisation that labor pays its own wages, which are ultimately measured, not in money, but in goods. The money wage only measures the estimated worth to other consumers of the goods produced by the wage earner. When any class of labor attempts to force its wages out of line with other wages and the price level, that group endeavors primarily to take advantage not of capital but of other workers, who, in last analysis, must suffer as others gain.

If special labor groups refuse to accept reductions in keeping with the general trend of both wages and prices, the farmers, the makers of shoes and garments and all those classes which supply the necessaries of life to these men for a time at least must give up in the form of unduly high prices a disproportionate share of the food or other goods which they produce in return for transportation, coal and other goods.

Denies Japanese Note Of Negotiations On Shantung

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 30.—The representatives of eight public organisations called on Dr. W. W. Yen, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, yesterday and asked him about the statements in the last Japanese reply on the Shantung question to the effect that informal negotiations had been carried on with Japan. The Minister categorically denied that he had made any such informal statement on the Shantung question.

Dr. Yen pointed out to the representatives that there were certain discrepancies in the original version of the Japanese memorandum and in the English version which were rather important. In regard to his reported conversation with Mr. Obata before the latter's departure for home last May he said that the Japanese minister had merely asked him to express his personal opinion on the Shantung question in order that he might form his ideas for a report to his government.

In regard to the reports that Councillor Yu of the Ministry of War had privately informed the Japanese Government of China's plans for solving the question of Shantung, Dr. Yen emphatically stated that those reports had nothing to do with the question as the Foreign Office was the only channel through which official Chinese views could be transmitted. The Foreign Minister also denied that Mr. Tang of the Waichiaopu had had anything to do with the Japanese authorities in regard to Shantung on this recent trip to Japan.

When asked about the Chinese reply to Japan Dr. Yen said that it was now being drafted and would be sent out within two weeks. To the request of the representatives of the eight public organisations that it be sent out at least before November 11, the Foreign Minister gave his consent and promised that this would be done.

Cooperation Ousts Influence Spheres

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 31.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Sir Alfred Yeo Mr. Cecil Harmsworth stated that the policy of spheres of influence in China had been superseded by the policy of international co-operation. The further development of this policy would doubtless be discussed at Washington.

William Katz & Co. Bring $5,000 Suit

Suit for $5,000 and a petition for an attachment on a consignment of lumber have been filed against B. S. Veinerman by William Katz and Co. in the Mixed Court.

Complainants allege that they advanced the $5,000 to the defendant for the purpose of paying freight on lumber from Vladivostok and that he refuses to repay the money now that the lumber has arrived in Shanghai.

CUSTOMS PUNISH SHIPS FOR FLYING FALSE TRICOLOR

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Oct. 26.—The Customs Commissioner of Ichang is now taking stringent measures against those Chinese steamers which have been doing illicit business under the cover of the French flag. These Chinese-French shipping companies have felt themselves beyond the pale of Chinese law and because of the fact that there is no French consul at Chungking, the shipping center of Szechuen, they have also escaped the restraint of French law.

The commissioner has attacked the business of these firms by fining them heavily for smuggling opium and shipping munitions of war and also by demanding of them large deposits as a guaranty for good behavior during the ensuing year.

FINED TAELS 90,000

The S. S. Shuhun, which was some time ago seized by order of General Wu Pei-fu and held for several days and which belongs to the Sino-French Trading Corporation, has been fined 90,000 taels for having smuggled opium under the protection of the French flag. This corporation has been asked to deposit 10,000 taels as a surety for one year of the operations of its steamers, Shuhun, Hainshutung, and Fuyuen.

The Compagnie Sino-Francais de Navigation has been asked to deposit a like sum. This Company owns the Hungkiang and Hungfok, the first of which was fined 40,000 taels on the charge of smuggling opium and also of trading with non-treaty ports as she loaded about six tons of opium at Fowchow, a small town some 60 miles below Chungkiang. Although subjected to no fine the company operating the Kikin has also been asked to deposit 10,000 taels as a surety for good behavior.

CUSTOMS HOLDS DEPOSITS

The fines and deposits which have already been advanced are under the control of the Customs authorities at Ichang. It is reported that most of these Chinese shipping companies feeling themselves out of the jurisdiction of Chinese law considered that they were subject to no laws at all and that if there had been a French consul at Ichang the smuggling of arms and opium might never have occured.

Hope For Russia

AMONG the good things that belong to adversity is a humble spirit of conciliation. Arbiters of the Soviet state, after nearly four years of proletariat arroganee, have at last agreed to pay the old imperial debts in return for inter-Allied relief and recognition of their government. The whip which drives them on is the scourge of famine, plague and death.

So many negotiations between the Soviets and the outside world have broken down that critics are sceptical of the sincerity of Moscow. The French point out there is no mention of war debts, nor manner of payment. But those who realise the desperate plight of the Soviet regime find in the announcement a climax to the compromise with capitalism heralded by Lenin in his August address to the world.

The arch-Soviet admitted the falsity of the Bolshevik hypothesis. He declared communism had failed because the peasant and worker betrayed their own interests. The muchly talked about "collective instinct" of the masses proved to be collective only in the Soviet dream.

After three years of trial Lenin denounced state ownership and control of industries, and urged the re-introduction of private enterprise as the life and breath of prosperity. Further, he resolved to put his trust in the force of individuals who rise above their classes, and perplex no more with the "collective instinct." By so doing he repudiated the favorite Bolshevik principle, the yeast in the world revolution which never came about, which was the reduction of everything within the state to the uniform pall of mediocrity, and the impoverishing law of the mean.

And thus the Soviets are attempting to avert their overthrow by capitulating to the old order. They must now reform their government or go down with the storm. That they set their sails to the wind only proves their political competence. Maxim Gorky, the mouthpiece of Moscow, predicts that within a few years Russia will be either a Socialist or a Democratic Republic. The costly failure of communism has impressed no observers more than the Soviet thinkers themselves.

The historian will probably discover that the communistic stage was as much a "house-cleaning" in the Russian revolution as the guilotine period was in the French revolution. By the law of social upheaval the constructive period should now begin. Brains and restorative legislation are needed. There is no reason to believe more able men than the Soviet leaders can be found for the task. A change of regime is not essential. If Lenin, Trotsky, Tchitcherin, Krassin, and others of Moscow who weathered the viccissitudes of the past three years, are sincere in their protestations of reform the salvation of Russia could be in no hands more capable and energetic. But the Allies will demand proof before they promise unstinted aid.

In decrying the Soviet offer to meet old debts the critics must remember there is another side to the shield. Russia bought huge quantities of shells to hurl against the German armies. In making her pay for those shells it is only ethical to give her a share of the reparation benefits from the victory in which she had a glorious share. The Allies were glad enough to know the Russian "steamroller" was flattening out the German armies along the Bug and Vistula. They should remember that gratitude in the days of readjustment.

Briefly, the situation in Russia is more hopeful than ever in the past three dark years. Repudiation of the imperial debt has been the stigma which branded Russia as a pariah among nations. With that blot removed, and the humanitarian influences of famine relief at work, the way will doubtlessly be paved for recognition of the existing government, or whatever government is set up. The reconstruction of the country will challenge the genius of empire builders, but the work will be a joyous one for a world badly shaken by the revolts against order which have been inspired by the Russian experiment.

SCENARIO WRITERS BEWARE

We've got a grand idea for a novel, which makes it practically unanimous.

It's not going to be one of these realistic books that make you feel when you've finished them like the morning after Christmas. We're going to defy convention from the first page to the last.

Our hero is going to be tall and narrow shouldered. Our heroine will be poor but dishonest. Our villain will be long and fat. He is going to try to bribe the hero with $1,000 in oblong figures and will hand over a roll of limp greenbacks.

But the hero will come out vertically and refuse, while the heroine drops her face in her arms and sobs lightly.

As for the plot, we're not certain, but we think it will be about the son of a bank president who through his own efforts surmounts all difficulties of upbringing and becomes a member of the Building Trades Council.

Bernard Shaw On Dempsey And Carpentier

BY BERNARD SHAW

(Famous British Writer Gives His Views of Carpentier-Dempsey Fight as a "Ringside" Critic After Seeing Motion Picture of the Championship Battle.)

"Those Who Have Seen Carpentier Only at New Jersey or in The Film Have No Idea of What He Can Do—The Film Shows Only What He Can Do When Sandbagged—Though Able to Box He Was Not Able to Think—Dempsey Fights with Intense Seriousness and Will to Victory—Dempsey's Knockout Punch Is Not as Decisive as Carpentier's."

I have just seen the Carpentier-Dempsey fight for the heavyweight championship of the world in London in the "movies."

I had a much better view of it than nine-tenths of the people who saw it in the flesh from Mr. Tex Rickard's benches in New Jersey. I could have seen it three or four times over without leaving my seat. Perhaps I should have done so if it had not been padded out with a great deal of matter (including some very dull boxing and some bogus training) of the sort that bears seeing once and once only. I am tempted to moralise on the enormous propaganda of pugilism that is being effected by this film, which repeats the fight again and again before millions of people all over the globe, and goes on for a year after the newspapers have been compelled to reject every allusion to it as intolerably stale.

But I refrain, and return to the subject only because of its technical interest for boxing, and the right of a boxing film to its criticism equally with ordinary sob stuff.

And first, I must warn those who have seen Monsieur Carpentier only at New Jersey or in this film that they have no idea of what he is like and what he can do when he is at the top of his form and master of himself and of the situation. The film shows only what he can do when he is sandbagged. This is no excuse for his defeat. It was Mr. Dempsey's business to sandbag him, and it was his own business to prevent Mr. Dempsey from sandbagging him.

Instead of doing so, he offered Dempsey (who will allow me to drop the ceremonious Mr.) every facility for the operation, and got it very literally in the neck. That he nevertheless put up a tremendous fight is true; Dempsey escaped defeat again and again by a millimeter, but in boxing a miss is as good as a mile; and though Carpentier only once failed to get his blows home, he had not the luck to land them on the fatal spot which makes it possible for one blow to decide a boxing contest.

CARPENTIER'S FORM GONE

He rose indomitably to a desperate situation, and fought fiercely and formidably to the last second with heroic pugnacity when all save honor was lost; but though able to box he was not able to think. His form was gone; he could not time his terrific left to stop his always agressive adversary; and his right, though it could still stagger Dempsey by its mere impact, was not the perfectly artistic straight right, like a fencer's thrust, that laid out Beckett.

His sidestepping was so perfect that Dempsey never once succeeded in getting him against the ropes with his retreat cut off; and after every such evasion he dashed at his man with a one-two that seemed to smash in before Dempsey could lift an elbow. But swift and fierce as it was, it was not the considered and finished delivery of Carpentier the artist; it was like the one-two of any other boxer who feels like a rat in a corner.

Except in the first round, when he was so plainly beaten that I do not quite know why Dempsey did not finish him, he was a possible winner up to the last moment, even assuming that his right was disabled by the sensational blow which might have, but did not, put Dempsey to sleep in the third round; for he still had a knockout blow in him, and Dempsey, like Beckett, could not stop it or dodge it.

But even if he had landed on the right spot and won the fight it would still have been true that the spectators would have been left without any notion of what Carpentier's style is at its best.

On the other hand, the film does Dempsey the justice that the printed reports of the fight (at least those that I have seen) denied him. The belief that he is a mere ruffian who is so tough that he will take everything that any boxer can give him, and batter him to bits afterward, winning his fights as a gorilla might, has hardly half a grain of truth in it.

He fights with an intense seriousness and a will to victory not less formidable than the same qualities in Carpentier. For fighting purposes he is not a lower level than Carpentier; the two adversaries were worthy of one another in that respect, though I doubt whether they knew it! indeed, I think that each undervalued the other, and I can well believe that Dempsey, as a London Times correspondent reported, was amazed, when he saw the film, at the fighting quality of the man whom he had been too busy beating to criticise. Another surprise is that his knockout punch is not as decisive as Carpentier's.

It did not come in the first round when it seemed to be called for. When Carpentier first dropped in the last round he rested in the most self-possessed professional manner until nine was counted, and then sprang to his feet in good order, and though the coup de grace, which came presently, jolted him out of all power to co-ordinate his movements, he was quite conscious, and made a desperate struggle, half raising himself and turning over with all his limbs reaching wildly to get a purchase somewhere before the fatal ten was called.

Beckett had no such nightmare when he was knocked out by Carpentier! he did not hear the count, and woke up an astonished man, having no idea that the fight was over.

SIZE NO ADVANTAGE

I must repeat here what I said before the fight, that the plea that Dempsey had an unfair advantage as the bigger man is all nonsense. Carpentier was quite big enough and strong enough to make the match a fair one. Some of the greatest boxers have been middleweights; and the giants have seldom justified the faith inspired by their inches. Both men displayed extraordinary physical power and the result had nothing whatever to do with the weights and measurements. The film exhibition of their muscles shows Dempsey as muscle-bound and Carpentier as perfectly lithe. The odds were on Carpentier all the time for those who, like myself, had never seen Dempsey at work. And if the two were to meet again, and Carpentier were to take the lesson of his defeat to heart, and change his tactics accordingly, the betting would be on him again; for he is Dempsey's master at outfighting and footwork.

And now for Dempsey's positive technical qualities. He is the best infighter in the American style I have ever seen. If Carpentier had been well advised he would have entered the ring with these words branded on his brain: "When you hit Dempsey, and he is still alive, get away, and get away quickly." And by getting away I do not mean the sidestepping and slipping by which Carpentier saved himself so cleverly every time Dempsey tried to rush him. I mean what he did with Beckett when Mr. Angle was referee; that is, step straight in with his lead and spring straight back out of half-arm reach when he landed, the referee being in his proper place out of the fight, and bent on having a display of boxing as distinguished from pollywogging. This is the old English style; and none of its ancient practitioners ever heard or dreamt of hitting or being hit on the back of the neck. In modern American practice, however, the occiput seems to be the favorite mark.

PITIES POOR REFEREE

It is de rigueur, when you have led off, or countered a lead-off, to crouch, clinch and begin pounding your man on the atlas process, or banging him over the kidneys, trying meanwhile to hold his arms locked under yours until the referee, who is in the ring all the time, takes part in the combat and violently tears the clinchers asunder. (Incidentally I may say that if ever I act as referee in an American glove fight I shall demand at least an equal share of the gate money and cinema rights with the rival champions, as I shall have to work just as hard and get no glory by it.)

At this game Dempsey is consummately skilful, cool, systematic, indefatigable and ruinously damaging. Carpentier, his superior at outfighting, cannot touch him at it.

I suppose Carpentier, vain of his weak point, fancied himself at it, and went into the fight confident that he could beat Dempsey as easily at it as at long shots. At all events, in the very first exchange, instead of getting away, he deliberately followed up to close quarters, crouched, and clinched. In ten seconds he had lost the fight.

Dempsey had him hammered silly before he knew where he was. Dempsey's fists never stopped for a moment, though they never moved wildly. Jag and jolt, bang and pound; they were all over Carpentier, especially on the occiput. That was the sandbag. It left Carpentier in such a state that he was forced to clinch again and again lest Dempsey should treat him as he himself had treated Beckett, and knock him out with a pot shot while he was dazed. And every time he clinched the hammering began again as insistently, as skilfully, as destructively as ever.

If Carpentier had not had a demon of endurance and determination in him he could not have got through the round. As it was, he went to his corner a desperate man, without having given a single demonstration of the classical pugilism that has made him the idol of artists as well as of bruisers.

WHY CARPENTIER LOST

The issue was now pretty narrow. Dempsey was bound to win at infighting; and as Carpentier persisted in the American routine of going into a clinch at every exchange, he played Dempsey's game for him. But there were still his terrible long shots, which were too quick for Dempsey (who, however, is by no means slow); and any one of them, if it jarred the funnybone which Dempsey must have in his jaw like other morals, would win him the fight.

He did land a veritable thunderbolt in the third round. I cannot say, as Carpentier has said, that I saw Dempsey's knees give, nor, as Corbett has said, that I was his eyes roll up; but I saw enough of its effect to know that Dempsey had a piece of luck like that of the batsman who skies a ball into the hands of mid-on, and sees it slip through his fingers. But instead of disabling Dempsey it appears that it disabled Carpentier by laming his hand: and at this, the only moment at which it seemed the right policy for him to follow up, he could not do so effectively.

He got in many other long shots; and Dempsey stopped most of them with his countenance as far as I could see; but the end was always the same; a clinch, and Dempsey master of his opponent, weakening him with body blows and stunning him with thumps on the spinal cord. Dempsey never lost his form, and never gave the French champion a moment's rest.

Carpentier avoided all his leads by slipping him; but Dempsey always knew where to find him and follow him up; and though, as he came on, Carpentier, with an unquenchable fighting spirit, would dash at him and let him have both fists in his face, he never hesitated nor hurried and was presently hammering away body to body as systematically as if he were working on a ship's plates instead of on a living antagonist, and a very dangerous one, too.

DEMPSEY'S OWN STYLE WON

In short, Dempsey did just the last thing that was expected of him: he not only won the fight, but impressed us by his morale. In his

Vitafer

The All-British Tonic Food

"VITAFER" the most tried and tested of all British TONIC FOODS. Vitafer is specially suitable at this season of the year as a general tonic and pick-me-up, following such a distressing summer as Shanghai has just experienced. The general result of which is that a great number of people are run down in Health, Nervy, Irritable, Physically and Mentally exhausted.

A Tonic food such as Vitafer is the finest Doctor obtainable at this present time.

VITAFER as a source of Protein is strongly recommended in preference to any meat preparation, to those with weak digestive systems a course of this tonic food will build up so that a speedy improvement in appetite, weight, and general well being follows. Simultaneously with this rapid body nutrition glycerophosphates are nourishing and rebuilding the nerve forces overcoming depression and lassitude which are consequent on a run-down neglected condition of health. It will also greatly benefit those who suffer from Neuritis, Anaemia, Dispepsia, Brain Fag and Kindred Complaints.

Suitable alike for children and adults, in 8 oz. sealed bottles. Price $6.00 per dozen, cash with order.

Shaw On Dempsey And Carpentier

different way, and for the purposes of his profession, he is as remarkable a genius as Carpentier. He has just been very much belittled, both by the absurd underrating of his opponent which went on before the fight, and by the failure of the press critics of pugilism to appreciate his skill, his generalship and his resolution in carrying out his own methods.

I feel sure that he must have received in the days before the fight enough bad advice to secure his defeat ten times over. I am equally sure from what I saw on the screen that he went his own way to the end. There was something in the way he picked up Carpentier the moment the count was finished that made one feel that he had foreknown his victory almost as certainly as the cinema spectators foreknow it now. His face before the fight begins is well worth studying.

And yet the odds were against him. If he ever meets a boxer of Carpentier's powers who will stick to the English classical school of boxing, and refuse to "mix it" in the American manner, he may be hard put to it to keep his championship.

Meanwhile, he has taught the best boxer in Europe a terrible lesson; and it will be interesting to see whether it will be taken to heart by Carpentier or his successors.

Meanwhile, the verdict of British boxing on Carpentier must be "Serve him right for doing in America as the Americans do instead of sticking to the classical method of European civilisation, of which he is the superlative exponent!"

For my part it would greatly revive my interest in boxing if the order "seconds out of the ring" were to include the referee, and if crouching and occipital pile-driving went the way of up-and-down fighting, and all the other practices that once made the ringside no place for a gentleman, not to mention a lady. Ladies are becoming as common at glove fights and the films thereof as at polo matches.

At the cinema several ladies saw the fight when I did and they were ordinary ladies, not Leicester-square ladies. Possibly this criticism may help them to understand what they are seeing, and encourage them to protest against American infighting as dull, ugly, and indefensible as a propagandist spectacle.

It produces decisions, because it produces disablement; and decisions are necessary to betting. But betting has always been the bane of honest boxing and now that the star pugilists draw the same fees whether they win, lose, or draw, they would be well advised to make their films as spectacular as possible by cultivating exhibition boxing, and leaving the minor practitioners to make more money by selling fights than by winning them.

Turkestan Is Now Slowly Recovering Pre-War Status

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Oct. 5.—The following is an economic survey of Turkestan for 1920 which appears in the "Economic Life:"

The year 1920 brought a slight improvement in the agricultural life of Turkestan. The area of cultivation was increased, in comparison with 1919, by 25 percent. Even so it still remained considerably smaller than in the prewar times. The increase in cultivation was exclusively in foodstuffs and forage. Cotton planting continued to decline. The area of cotton planting comprised 109,000 desiatins, i.e., only 5 percent of the total cultivated area. In 1917 it was 15 percent of the total cultivated area.

Cattle raising, one of the basic industries of Turkestan, also had fallen off during the past few years. In 1919 the number of steppe cattle in the country was approximately 2,500,000. In 1920 a gradual revival in cattle breeding began, and everywhere there is evidence of a gradual increase in the number of calves.

SILK IN BAD SHAPE

The silk industry was in a deplorable state. Turkestan had to rely on silk worm larvae from internal sources as it was impossible to import any. The total amount of cocoons was a little over 15,000 poods.

With regard to fuel, the year 1920 commenced under considerable difficulties. There were no imports whatever. The railway service was paralyzed. In May some quantities of oil began to arrive from Baku via Krasnovodsk, and the fuel crisis somewhat was less acute. The consumption of fuel in Turkestan before the war amounted to 22,000,000 poods of oil and 10,000,000 of coal.

In 1920 Turkestan received 5,700,000 poods of coal, despatched from the mines, and 7,950,000 poods of oil from Kransovodsk The demand of fuel was only partly met and attention was devoted to collecting wood fuel, and stock were collected of the growth which is very abundant in the steppes of Turkestan.

RAIL TRANSPORTATION BEST

The condition of railway transportation in Turkestan was better than in the rest of Russia in 1920. The repair and construction of locomotives and freight cars exceeded the estimate by 15 percent in locomotives and by 53 percent in freight cars. Out of the 627 locomotives 292, or 46.5 percent were unfit.

The leather industry played an important part in the industries of Turkestan. The leather factories did not feel the shortage of fuel as much as other industries. At the same time, Turkestan was abundantly supplied with raw material, with the exception of sole leather, and the preparation of vegetable tanning provided the industry more or less with the chemical substance it required. The conditions of labor were also relatively favorable. Thanks to the favorable circumstances, the output of the Central Leather Department was comparatively high; 3,960,000 hides were prepared during the year, 29,500 pieces being heavy ones.

NEED CHEMICAL INDUSTRY

The chemical industry did not emerge from from its handicraft stage during the period under discussion. The existence of many small factories, established by the local economic councils, to some extent met the acute shortage of chemical products. At the same time new buildings were commenced in several large factories. Great expectation is placed in them.

With regard to food supply, Turkestan experienced much suffering during 1920. The collection of stocks proceeded very slowly. Throughout the country the corn levy was carried out only to the extent of 18 percent, and the forage levy to 25½ percent, altogether only half as much as in European Russia. As a result of the bad harvest, the population suffered from want of food. The co-operative societies were in the process of organisation, and played a very insignificant part in the economic life of Turkestan.

Economic relations between Turkestan and Central Russia were improved during 1920 and took a more normal turn. A total of 6,415 carloads of cotton, equaling 3,146,000 poods, were exported to Central Russia; in 1918 only 2,151 carloads were exported. In addition, 470,000 poods of wool, 393,000 poods of silk, and 662,000 raw hides, chiefly of smaller animals, were exported.

Chihli Holds Railway To Peking Against Chang

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 29.—General Chang Tso-lin holds Peking in the ring of his military establishment, and if war should break out between him and the Chihli party, represented by Wu Pei-fu and Tsao Kun, Chang Tso-lin would, without any effort, control the city, as completely as he controls it today. He has more than 40,000, troops stationed north, south, east and west of the Capital, while the Chihli party has a scant 12,000. On the other hand the Chihli party controls the railways that lead to the south and to central China.

Details of the troops emplacement have been obtained from an authoritative source. Inside the city, acting as guards to the Manchu dynasty, now living in the Forbidden City, Chang Tso-lin has placed a regiment of the Sixteenth Division, troops that were formerly in the pay of General Feng, President of China before Hsu Shih-chang, and are now reorganised mixed with Fengtien troops, and in the pay of the Mukden Lord.

HOLDS DUAL CONTROL

Thus he controls within the walls, in case of trouble. Outside the city, at Nanyuan, at Tungchow, at Langfang, at Hsi Yuan, at Kalgan at Jehol, and at Hsiaochen, Chang's troops control the approaches to the city. At Nanyuan, the flying field, there are the First Fengtien Reserve Division, numbering 8,000 men, and the Second Fengtien Mixed Brigade, numbering about 4,000.

At Tungchow, to which, according to the reports, the troops of Chiang Kwei-ti have been assigned, and where trouble is expected between the two bodies, Chang has one cavalry regiment of 600 men. Lang Fang, on the Peking-Tientsin Railway line has about 4,000 encamped, the Sixth Fengtien Mixed Brigade. At Hsiaochan, to the southeast of Tientsin there is one brigade, numbering 3,000.

At Jehol, from which Chang Tso-lin ousted Chiang Kwei-ti, there are the crack troops of the Mukden Lord, the Twenty-Eighth Division, numbering about 8,000. At Kalgan, or near it, are the troops left from the projected expedition against Urga, with cavalry and artillery, one regiment of the Sixteenth Division, with about 8,000 men, and with this force is one native provincial brigade, said not to be under the control of Chang directly. All the above mentioned troops number in the vicinity of 40,000 men, and are in the pay of the Ministry of Finance.

WU CONTROLS APPROACHES

To oppose these troops, if trouble should break out between Wu Pei-fu and Chang Tso-lin, there are only 12,000 Chihli troops, that are stationed at Machang, on the Tientsin Pukow Railway, 3,000 of them under Tsao Ying, the twenty-sixth Division, and at Chochow, on the Peking-Hankow railway forty miles from Peking, the Thirteenth Brigade, numbering 4,000. These two bodies, however, plus the other troops further south, control the approaches to the south and central China.

Chinese news sources declare today, that there is great concern in Chinese Government circles, over the payment of the above-mentioned troops, inasmuch as, according to the usual condition of the government finances there is no money to pay even the salaries of the current month, let alone the arrears. The Peking Jih Pao declares that the money due the Chihli troops is in the neighborhood of $850,000 while that due the Fengtien troops is $900,000. It is said that Premier Chin Yun-peng "is much excited."

Chinese Holding Famine Supplies

(Rosta News Agency)

Chita, Oct. 26.—A special through train with food supplies for the famine sufferers in Soviet Russia, which was despatched from Harbin last week has been detained at Manchuli station by the Chinese Customs officials. Mr. Ozornin, the representative of the Far Eastern Republic at Harbin, has received a telegram asking him to protest against the detention. He has acted accordingly.

RAIL SERVICE GOOD

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Oct. 25.—The Director of the American Relief Association, Mr. Haskell, has completed his inspection trip to the famine districts in the Volva region. Mr. Haskell states that he has found the transportation facilities very satisfactory and that three-fourths of the famine sufferers can be fully provided for if regular supplies of food and other necessities are forthcoming from foreign countries.

Originally the American association intended to care only for the children, but after his trip Mr. Haskell thinks that is is necessary to help the adults too, as least with medical supplies as typhoid fever and dysentery are prevalent in the affected districts as a result of poor nourishment and harmful substitutes. There are plenty of hospitals in the cities but there is a great shortage of medicine and bedding In the rural districts medical assistance is still more difficult.
